SLEEP ON TRACK ENDS IN DEATH

James Newkirk L. E. & W. Employee Killed by I. & C. Car Near Home West of City.

UNCLE FINDS HIS DEAD BODY

General Opinion is That Young Man Had Been Drinking Before Last Saloon Closed.

James H. Newkirk, 20 years old, was killed by an I. & C. traction car at stop 25, five miles west of this city early Sunday morning. The young man's lifeless body was found by his uncle, W. M. Newkirk, shortly after eight o'clock Sunday morning, lying just south of the track and on the west side of the road.

Although the way in which young Newkirk met his death will probably never be known, it is supposed that he was sitting on the cattle guard asleep and was struck by an east car which reaches this city at 12:50. He had been in the city Saturday night and although no one was found who believed the young man was intoxicated it was generally believed by those who saw him that he had been drinking and like many others celebrating the closing of the last saloon. He left this city on the 12:01 car Saturday night and got off at stop 25 near the home of his father, Robert Newkirk, who lives on the Gowdy farm. This was the last time the young man was seen alive.

Other passengers on the same car say that Newkirk slept all the way out to the stop and that the conductor had to awaken him when the car stopped. They said, however, that he was wide enough awake to tell them all good night when he left the car. Frank Andrews of Arlington, who was sitting just behind Newkirk says that in his opinion the young man was not intoxicated, although he thought he might have been drinking some. He said the young man was very drowsy.

It is supposed that Newkirk sat down on the cattle guard and went back to sleep after he got off the west bound car. From the nature of his injuries it is thought the young man was not sitting on the rails. His skull was badly crushed and his left arm was broken. It is thought the car swiped him and this probably accounts for the fact that the crew on the east-bound car did not know they had struck him until told of the accident yesterday. Charles Brooks was the motorman on the car and Earl Moore was the conductor. They say they had a clear track all the way through and Brooks is sure there was no one on the track.

W. M. Newkirk, an uncle of the boy, came to this city with him Saturday evening, reaching here at 6:44. Young Newkirk had been in New Castle and Indianapolis Saturday, and was returning to this city. He gave his uncle a twenty-dollar bill to keep for him, and after reaching this city a five dollar bill. W. M. Newkirk said the boy appeared to have been drinking then and was very quiet. He said, however, he was not drunk. Young Newkirk was employed as flagman and clerk at the Lake Erie & Western station in this city and had just drawn his month's salary before leaving Saturday.

When the uncle arose yesterday morning and did not find the boy at home he thought he had probably been arrested for intoxication since he felt reasonably sure that the boy had been drinking the night before. He spoke to the boy's father and told him he would go look for Jim. When he reached the stop he saw the dead body of the boy at the side of the road. He stopped the 8:44 east bound car and with the crew examined the body. The crew telephoned Will Frazee claim agent of the I. & C. who summoned Coroner Coleman. Mr. Frazee later went to the scene of the accident and made an investigation.

The body was carried back to the Newkirk home after the coroner had made his investigation. When the mother who had prepared breakfast for her son heard that he was dead she became almost frantic with grief. The father heard the sad news shortly after the body was found and it was a deep shock to him to hear of the death of his boy in whom he had placed much confidence. Besides the parents one brother survives.

One of the first to reach the home of the bereaved family after the accident was Captain J. K. Gowdy, on whose farm the Newkirks live. He had taken much interest in the young man, and was deeply shocked to hear of his tragic death.

The funeral services were held this afternoon at two o'clock at the home and burial was in Arlington East Hill cemetery.

ASSOCIATION WAS IN SESSION TODAY

Ministers of Flatrock Baptist Organization Held Conference in First Baptist Church.

PUBLIC MEETING TONIGHT

The sessions of the Flatrock Baptist Association were held in the First Baptist church in Morgan street today. The conference is for the ministers of the church in the Association. Nearly every church, about forty in number, was represented by its minister here today. The organization includes Shelbyville, Greensburg, Columbus, Cambridge City, Richmond and many other surrounding cities.

The meeting during the day was for the members of the Association, but tonight a big meeting will be held which is open to the public. Rev. R. W. Clark of Hope, Ind., will deliver the sermon. He is a young man of recognized ability and a very interesting address is expected.

AGED CITIZEN IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Funeral Services of Frederick Kuntz, 87 Years Old, Who Died Friday Night.

HE WAS A NATIVE OF GERMANY

The funeral service of Frederick Kuntz, 87 years old, who died at his home in Walker township last Friday night, took place yesterday afternoon at the German church, south of Manna. The Rev. G. G. Winters officiated and burial was in the cemetery adjoining the church. Mr. Kuntz was one of the oldest citizens of the county. He was born in Germany, but came to this country when a young man. Five sons survive. They are Jacob, Peter, John, Conrad and George.

FAIR ASKS AID OF THE COUNTY

Directors Wish to Take Advantage of Law Allowing One Cent on $100

IT WAS BEFORE THE COUNCIL

But Was Not Passed—Slight Burden on Taxpayers and Much Help to Association.

The Rush county fair association had expected to get an appropriation from the county council but through some misunderstanding the ordinance did not go through. A law on the statute books allows the county council to make an appropriation for the fair association and limits it to the rate of one cent on the $100. Practically all the neighboring counties have this appropriation but the Rush county association has managed to squeeze through it so far.

This limit on the amount that can be appropriated would mean that the association would receive about $200 yearly from the county. With this additional income the managers believe they could easily surpass any of the fairs in the surrounding counties or for that matter in the State. The increased taxation would amount to little. For instance the man who lists property at $5000 would have to pay just fifty cents.

Since the by-laws of the association provide that no dividends can be paid to the stockholders all the surplus would go toward the improvement of the grounds or toward obtaining better attractions for the next year.

It is understood that a majority of the councilmen favored the proposition and that the measure was passed on the first and second reading. Then there arose some misunderstanding as to the constitutionality of the law and its application to the Rush county association. County attorney Tittsworth was sure the law was perfectly plain on the subject and that the county council make the appropriation without any fear of having the transaction questioned from a legal standpoint. Some of the councilmen were not convinced however and an opinion was asked from attorney general Bingham. Mr. Bingham corroborated Mr. Tittsworth and said the law was constitutional and could be applied here. His opinion reached here Saturday but in the meantime the petition had been withdrawn by the fair association directors.

When the matter was brought up again Saturday the council was not in favor of acting on it again and the fair association directors dropped the matter. Now it is probable that the matter will be allowed to rest until the annual meeting of the fair stockholders in January when it will be brought up and it is thought the association will pass a petition asking the county council to make the appropriation and it is probable that the council will be asked to consider the matter again after this action.

HE SHAKES OFF "DRY" DUST

Greeley Ferguson Left for California, Where Local Option is Unknown.

Greeley Ferguson, the tailor, left this morning for Bakersfield, California. Greeley is a native of Rushville, having been born here some forty years ago, but since the town went dry, he has shaken the dust from his feet and has left for "wet" territory.

Rushville Will!

PUMP BUSY ON FIRST DRY DAY

Has Many Strange Callers After the Closing of the Last Saloon Saturday Night.

BUSINESS AND ORDER GOOD

City Marshal Price Keeps the Crowd Under Control and no Arrests Are Made.

It's awfully "dry" in Rushville today. In fact, it is dryer than it has been in years with the exception of legal holidays. The poor old pump handle has been greeted warmly and dryly many times today and it has had many strange callers, too.

The closing of James A. Thompson's saloon, the last in this city, marked the end of the presence of saloons here and the oldest inhabitants can not recall the day when conditions were like they are now in Rushville. The last few hours of the life of the saloon were quite busy.

An almost unheard of thing was the record made here Saturday night. When the saloon closed the crowds went to their homes without a single arrest being made or the least trouble of any kind being reported. Trouble had been expected as practically every other city has had its woes on the last night. City Marshal Price deserves much credit for the unusual record. He worked hard and showed much good judgment Saturday night.

He was in the saloon the greater part of the evening and when he saw anyone getting the least bit reckless or drunk promptly put him out. Those in the saloon soon learned that no rowdiness would be tolerated and they either behaved themselves or got out before they were put out. There was little evidence of booze on the streets, although the man with the long package wrapped in newspaper was rather a common sight.

There was a large crowd in the city Saturday night and the saloon had all the business it could possibly take care of. Mr. Thompson says he has had considerable experience in the saloon business and has seen saloons operating under very prosperous circumstances, but never did he see anything that resembled the business his saloon did Saturday.

The last fifteen minutes of the saloon's life were rather amusing. The sidewalk across the street from the saloon was crowded with spectators who were anxious to see the saloon die. The curb stone was lined with people much as it is when a circus is unloading. Buggies and automobiles stopped in the street and considerable interest was shown in the event. A few minutes before eleven a clerk from a store nearby dashed out of his place and stormed the saloon for his final drink. Another man

Barytone Solo Pleases.

Much favorable comment has been heard on the work of Earl Robertson barytone soloist at the Star Grand theater in the singing of the Daily Republican's song "Shine On Oh Star" which was in Saturday's issue. The song is written for a barytone voice and although difficult Mr. Robertson sang it in a very pleasing and creditable manner. The young man's voice is improving daily and his friends predict a brilliant future for him. Mr. Robertson sings the song published in the Daily Republican each Saturday and it is on some of these that he has made his biggest hits.

was afraid Jack Crush would not get there in time. A near panic was caused when somebody said the pump handle was broken.

And then just as the town clock hit the first stroke of eleven Marshal Price started the throng toward the door. The last patrons were orderly and left the saloon quietly. A few seconds after the clock had finished striking the doors were bolted and the licensed saloon in Rushville had died. There was no song service, no good wishes were expressed for the future, no optimistic remarks, no word of regret—the saloon just died and what people thought they kept to themselves.

Mr. Thompson, the proprietor, has not yet decided what he will do. He will hold the room for the present at least. Since Mr. Thompson has been in the saloon business here he has made many friends and has shown himself to be a thorough business man in every way. Both the friends of the saloon and those who are opposed to it hope that he may see fit to engage in some other business and remain in Rushville.

FELL BACK DEAD IN ARMS OF A FRIEND

William Johnson, Retired Undertaker, Expired Suddenly at Home in Carthage Sunday.

HAD A STROKE OF PARALYSIS

William S. Johnson died suddenly at his home in Carthage yesterday evening, following several months of very poor health. He suffered a severe stroke of paralysis recently which is thought to have been the cause of his death. He fell back in the arms of Lon Zohn, who was spending the day with him. The deceased was formerly an undertaker, but had retired from the business. He was over seventy years old.

Mr. Johnson is survived by one son Ray Johnson of Detroit, Mich., and one daughter, Eva, who conducts a millinery store in Carthage, his wife having died several years ago.

The funeral services will be conducted at the Friends' church in Carthage tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock. The remains will be buried in the church cemetery.

LOCAL HORSEMEN IN MANY PLACES

Dick Wilson Will Drive Famous Team in Exhibition Mile at New York State Fair.

BROOKS, JONES, WEEKS OUT

Rushville horsemen will be in many parts of the country this week for race meetings. Dick Wilson has shipped his stable to New York State fair to be held at Syracuse this week. He has a contract to start Lady Maud C and Hedgewood Boy to the pole in an exhibition mile for the world's record for teams.

George Weeks and Horrie Brooks have taken their horses to Eaton, O., for the races there. Harrie Jones has shipped his stable to Fort Wayne where he has several horses entered.

The use of the fork is comparatively modern. The original fork was two-pronged and its adoption was held to betoken an unusual degree of elegance and refinement.

WISH FOR MORE UNIFORM ROUTE

School Hack Drivers Met With the County Superintendent Saturday.

FOUR MILES THE BEST LENGTH

Principals Over County Met to Talk Over School Work—Field Day Exercises October 31.

County Superintendent Orlando Randall's office was the scene of much activity Saturday afternoon. The drivers of the school hacks in each township held a meeting there to settle their differences and to argue upon some certain length for each route. Also the principals of the schools over the county met with Superintendent Randall to talk over the work of the school year.

The superintendent called the hack drivers together to talk over the advisability of establishing some sort of uniform length for their routes. It was found that the route, which seemed to be the most agreeable and the one which pleased everyone, was one between four and five miles in length each way or a total of nine or ten miles each day. There are only two townships in the county which have routes that small and there the least trouble is found. Those are in Rushville and Union townships.

In many of the townships the routes are very long and cause not only the pupils but also the drivers much inconvenience. There is only one oute in Anderson township and here the wagon has to travel twenty-eight miles each day. Several of the pupils are compelled to ride over ten miles each day in order to get to their school. In two other townships some of the pupils have to ride about ten miles and in Washington township one of the pupils has to travel in the wagon about ten and one-half miles each way.

The consolidated school system seems to be the best plan for the township schools and the hack plan the most feasible plan of getting the pupils to and from school. But it seems that the trouble lies in the fact according to the county superintendent, that an effort is made to run the hacks on too small amount of money. It is thought that a uniform length of routes can be established within the near future, which will be agreeable to all. In going to and from the school the hack driver has the same power over the children as the teacher and if they do not submit to his jurisdiction, it will be necessary for them to find some other way to get to school.

The principals met after the hack drivers had adjourned to talk over the work for the coming year. They discussed the various problems which come to them during the school year and the best way to meet them. It was decided to hold the annual field day exercises, which were scheduled to come off chautauqua week, but were postponed, at the fair grounds the last Saturday in October, the 31st. A new and more elaborate program will be arranged and announced later.

All of the school in the county began this morning, with the exception of those at Mays and Arlington. At Mays the repairs on the building have not been completed and at Arlington a teacher has not yet been decided on.

NEW LIGHT ON CONTROVERSY

How Dr. Cook's Stores Were Treated by Peary.

DANISH PHYSICIAN'S LETTER

In a Copenhagen Paper a Confidant of Dr. Cook Gives the Latter's Version of the Trouble With Commander Peary Over Supplies in the Frigid Zone—According to This, Dr. Cook's Stores Were Taken Over by Peary, Acting on Presumption That Cook Was Dead.

Copenhagen, Sept. 13.—Giving Dr. Frederick A. Cook's version of the trouble with Commander Peary over supplies, a remarkable letter appears in the newspaper Politiken. The letter was written by Dr. Norman Hansen, a prominent Danish physician, who several times visited Greenland to study eye diseases, which he has made a specialty of.

Dr. Cook told practically the same story to one of his closest American friends, just a week ago, before Commander Peary reappeared on the scene, but said he did not intend to make it public because it might lead to unpleasantness.

Dr. Hansen was with Cook for some time in Greenland and returned with him on the Danish government steamer Hans Egede. In his letter he says:

"Now that Dr. Cook has gone, I am no longer under any obligation to keep silence, and I will exercise my right to publish the story about the house in Annatook, a story which Dr. Cook himself had too much delicacy to relate to the world. I write it according to my memory, in the same manner that Dr. Cook in Egedesminde told it to me, and I am fully convinced that in no details are my recollections wrong."

"Dr. Cook had built his house for stores in Annatook, north of Etah, and it was this depot which he started to reach in February, 1909, crossing Smith sound. He had, before the start, arranged with a young friend named Whitney that he have the right to use the house while hunting musk-oxen for sport, in the winter of 1908-09."

"When Dr. Cook and his two Eskimos, exhausted and half starved, came within a shot's distance of the house in Annatook, young Whitney came out to bid him welcome, but inside the house was a stranger, a giant Newfoundland boatwain, on watch. This man had been placed in Dr. Cook's house by Peary when the latter passed Etah with his ship, bound north. Peary had given the boatwain a written order, which commenced with the following words: 'This house belongs to Dr. Frederick A. Cook, but Dr. Cook is long ago dead, and there is no use to search after him. Therefore, I, Commander Robert E. Peary, install my boatwain in this deserted house.'

"This paper the boatwain, who could neither read nor write, exhibited to Dr. Cook and the latter took a copy of this wonderful document. This copy, however, he does not intend to publish if Peary's course does not force him to do so. Dr. Cook gave me a lively account of how the young millionaire, Mr. Whitney, during the whole winter was treated like a dog by the giant boatwain and how he had calmly witnessed the sailor bartering Dr. Cook's provisions for fox and bear skins for himself. Dr. Cook also had to put a good face on the unpleasant situation. He had to beg to get into his own house and had to make a compromise with the boatwain with strong fists."

"Dr. Cook made a present of the house with all its contents to his two faithful Eskimos, with the provision that Whitney was to have the use of the house as long as his hunting trip lasted, but he was compelled to let the Newfoundland boatwain continue his watch. The boatwain, however, received strict orders not to exchange any more of the provisions or guns. To Mr. Whitney Dr. Cook gave his instruments and his observations, as he thought these precious things were safer there than on the long sledge trip in the spring across Melville bay, but all his note-books and greasy and soiled record books which have been so closely written upon, he kept and carried with him."

WAITING FOR PEARY

North Sydney Prepared to Welcome Victorious Explorer.

Sydney, N. S., Sept. 13.—To give welcome to the finder of the "big nail" when he first sets foot on the American continent after his long but successful search for the north pole, all Sydney awaits the coming of Commander Robert E. Peary.

Mrs. Peary, wife of the Arctic explorer, said that she had received a wireless telegram from Commander Peary at Battle Harbor, saying he was well and would keep her posted. She added that she assumed her husband was still in Battle Harbor and that no definite time had been set for his departure for this city. Miss Marie Peary received a telegram on Sunday from her father congratulating her on her sixteenth birthday. Marie Peary was born sixteen years ago in the Arctic region. Her middle name is Ahnighito, which was the name of the old Eskimo woman who made the little girl her first suit of fur clothes. Mrs. Peary said the name Ahnighito meant "sharp pointed mountain."

Commander Peary is moving southward in the same precise manner that characterized his methodical and well calculated dash for the pole. The Roosevelt is being overhauled and painted at Assizes Harbor, near Battle Harbor, and her commander has ordered that every injury sustained in her long stay in the ice cradle of Cape Sheridan shall be removed before she sails for this port. The bunkers of the Roosevelt are being filled, as it is calculated that it will take nearly five days' steady steaming before she reaches this port. It required nearly seven days for the Roosevelt to run from Battle Harbor to Sydney on the return from the previous Arctic trip, though at one time the ship had only the use of one boiler. Commander Peary in all probability will remain here two days and then go with his family to his home on Eagle Island, in Casco bay, Maine, where he will rest for a day or two, proceeding thence to Washington to make his official report to the government. While here he will confer with Herbert L. Bridgman, secretary of the Peary Arctic club, and will acquaint himself with the latest details of the Peary-Cook controversy. That Commander Peary is prepared to substantiate by evidence his statement that Dr. Frederick A. Cook did not reach the pole is stated by nearly every one of the large colony of Arctic explorers, scientists and others who have gathered here to greet the explorer from the north.

Cook Honored by King Haakon.

Christiansand, Sept. 13.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, whose arrival at Christiansand was greeted by a salute of seven guns from the fort by the special order of King Haakon, and who was the object of the greatest enthusiasm during his brief stop here, was given a notable farewell when the Oscar II. steamed out of the port. He was welcomed aboard the Scandinavian liner by more than a thousand passengers, who crowded her decks.

HARRIMAN'S GRAVE IN A LONELY SPOT

Hewn From Rock On a Rugged Hillside.

Arden, N. Y., Sept. 13.—The body of Edward H. Harriman was carried Sunday through the quiet aisles of the Ramapo woods from the great house he never lived to see finished, and laid in its last resting place on the Arden hillside. The rulers of Wall street came from New York to pay their last tribute, but the most prominent part in the funeral ceremonies was taken by the men who knew him best as a country squire, master of the great estate which covers 43,000 acres of hill and valley in this, the most rugged part of Orange county. His general superintendent, his master carpenter, his master mason and the managers and assistant managers of his dairies, his farms and his trotting stables were the men who bore his coffin, and the services were led by his own chaplain.

The pines and oaks that surround the little Episcopal church of St. John's, half a mile up the hill from the Arden railway station, never before sheltered such a distinguished gathering as stood bareheaded under their shade by the grave. The funeral was private and only those who were personal friends of the family and had received invitations from Mrs. Harriman were admitted.

The regular funeral service of the Episcopal church was conducted by Dr. McGuinness, assisted by the Rev. G. Nelson, archdeacon of the cathedral of St. John the Divine, in New York. A male quartet and the choir of Grace church, New York, sang "Abide With Me," and "There is a Land of Pure Delight." Mr. Harriman's favorite hymns. The service lasted but twenty minutes. Then the stalwart bearers carried the casket to the burial plot, 100 yards up the road.

Mr. Harriman lies in a little clearing, not ten feet from the roadway. His grave, hewn from the rock of the steep hillside, will always be fragrant with the balsam and hemlock that hem it in on every side except that toward the road. One of his own gardeners could not have chosen a less ostentatious place for his last sleep.

There was not room inside the burial ground for more than fifteen or twenty besides the mourners and the two officiating clergymen. Others stood in the road outside and looked over the high stone wall. The surpliced choir took its stand in another small clearing, ten yards away, where, hidden from view, they sang the hymns that accompanied the burial—"I Heard a Voice From Heaven," and "Hark, Hark, My Soul."

Several hundred of the Harriman employes and their families stood with bared heads outside the church during the service and gathered at a respectful distance from the grave during the interment.

It was 5 o'clock when Archdeacon Nelson took a handful of earth and, sprinkling it over the bed of lilies that hid the metal casket, consigned the body of Edward H. Harriman to the earth on the spot he loved best.

NEW SCHEME TO GET RICH QUICK

This Family Had It All Figured Out.

TO BEAT INSTALLMENT HOUSES

Several Thousand Dollars' Worth of Furniture Purchased on the Installment Plan Was Intercepted Just as It Was Being Shipped Out of Indianapolis—Three Brothers and the Wives of Two of Them Charged With Working a Bold Swindling Game.

Indianapolis, Sept. 13.—After joint efforts to swindle four or five installment houses out of furniture worth about $4,000 had failed, three brothers and the wives of two of them were arrested. They were charged with grand larceny by trick and fraud, and are being held under high bond. Those in custody are William R. Taylor, thirty-four years old; Cora Taylor, thirty-four, his wife; John F. Taylor, twenty-five years old; Minnie Taylor, twenty-four, his wife; James H. Taylor, nineteen years old. At the close of a five-hour "sweating" the Taylor brothers and wives confessed and went to separate cells.

The Taylors lived at 1908 Ashland avenue for two weeks, and in that time planned to obtain large amounts of furniture on the installment and ship it to Durant, Okla., without paying for it. The wives under assumed names made the purchases. Mrs. Cora Taylor as Mrs. W. J. Williams and Mrs. Minnie Taylor as Mrs. A. J. Miller "shopped" and sent their goods to different addresses. "Mrs. Williams" had her furniture delivered to 2113 North Capitol avenue, a house rented by William especially for the purpose—and "Mrs. Miller" instructed the different firms to send her household effects to the Ashland avenue home.

"Mrs. Williams" obtained $900 worth of goods for a cash payment of $125, a $1,000 piano with a $25 deposit and a $200 graphophone for a $25 initial installment. "Mrs. Miller" purchased a $600 piano and bought about $500 worth of goods at other stores by making small deposits.

John bought a $60 set of harness by making a $10 payment and another set at another place by a similar plan. James did his part in looking after the proposed shipment. A member of one of the firms had his suspicions aroused. The sheriff was called into the case and only an hour before the time for the departure of one car a deputy took charge. Captain Manning was notified and his men found another car filled with Taylor supplies ready for shipment. One was in the Big Four yards and the other was on the Vandalia tracks. Arrests followed.

TAFT PREPARES FOR LONG TRIP

Will Start Wednesday On Swing-Around Circle.

ITINERARY OF THE JOURNEY

Leading Through Thirty States and Two Territories Besides a Side Trip Into Mexico, President Taft Will Cover a Distance Equal to Half the Circumference of the Globe Before Reaching Washington Nov. 10.—He Will Dine With President Diaz on Foreign Soil Oct. 16.

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 13.—On Wednesday, following his attendance at a dinner tendered him by the chamber of commerce at Boston tomorrow night, President Taft will begin a journey scheduled to conclude at Washington on the eve of Nov. 10. From Boston the objective point will be Chicago, where the president will spend Thursday, leaving later for the west and southwest and swinging around through the south until he has traveled a distance equal to one-half the circumference of the globe.

Leading through thirty states and both of the far southwestern territories, the president's trip will reach its climax at El Paso, Tex., on Oct. 16, where he will meet President Diaz of Mexico. The meeting will be surrounded with all the pomp and dignity which such a rare occasion demands, and after Mr. Taft has formally received President Diaz at El Paso he will cross the international bridge to Ciudad Juarez, officially to return the call of the chief executive of the southern republic. During the evening of the 6th, President Taft will be entertained at a state dinner on Mexican soil. President Diaz will be entertained at luncheon at El Paso.

The president's trip covers an itinerary of 12,759 miles, and his private cars, the Mayflower and the Haslemere, will be handled over twenty-two different railroad systems. The voyage down the Mississippi river from St. Louis to New Orleans on the steamboat Mississippi covers 1,165 miles and occupies four days and five nights. In addition to the meeting with President Diaz and the voyage down the Mississippi river, a trip which President Roosevelt made several years ago, the striking incidents of President Taft's tour will include a moonlight ride through the Royal Gorge and a night trip over the highest passes of the Rocky mountains; an inspection of one of the greatest irrigation projects in all the west, at Montrose, Col.; a visit to the smelters at Butte; a flying visit to the Coeur d'Alene country of northern Idaho; a two-days' stay at the Alaska-Yukon exposition at Seattle; a day of sight-seeing down the Shasta route in California; a three-days' visit to the Yosemite valley; a day spent about the rim of the grand canyon in Arizona, and four days on the ranch of the president's brother, Charles P. Taft, near Corpus Christi, Tex.

Five of his nine cabinet officers will at different times be the guests of the president for portions of the trip, and after he reaches the Pacific coast there will be from two to four with him practically all of the time.

Leaving Boston Wednesday, the president's party will consist of himself, Captain Archibald W. Butt, his military aide; Wendell W. Mischler, assistant secretary; Charles C. Wagner, executive stenographer; Dr. J. J. Richardson of Washington; Gerritt Fort, assistant to the vice president of the New York Central lines, who will have all of the transportation arrangements for the entire trip in charge; James Sloan, jr., and Joseph E. Murphy, secret service operatives; Arthur Brooks, messenger, and six newspaper men.

The cabinet officers who will be with the president at the meeting with President Diaz are the secretary of state Mr. Knox; the secretary of war, Mr. Dickinson; the postmaster general, Mr. Hitchcock, and the secretary of commerce and labor, Mr. Nagel. The secretary of the interior, Mr. Ballinger, is expected to be with the president during the greater part of the time he spends in the northwest. The president has also invited a number of United States senators and personal friends to make portions of the journey as his friends.

A Shocking Home-Coming.
Kewanee, Ill., Sept. 13.—When Jas. Atkinson stepped from a train here upon returning from a visit in Nebraska, he found rescuers dragging the body of his dying son Samuel, aged twenty-five, from under a freight train on a switch track. The young man had gone to the depot to meet his father. He died in his father's arms.

Never Saw Him Again.
Rockford, Ill., Sept. 13.—Mrs. Fannie Wagner has brought suit for annulment of her marriage to Richard Wagner. Wagner, who represented himself as a Chicago commission merchant, is alleged to have disappeared a few hours after the wedding with $1,000 of his wife's savings. She says she never saw him again.

NEEDFUL KNOWLEDGE

Rushville People Should Learn to Detect the Approach of Kidney Disease.

The symptoms of kidney trouble are so unmistakable that they leave no ground for doubt. Sick kidneys excrete a thick, cloudy, offensive urine, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of sealding. The back aches constantly, headaches and dizzy spells may occur and the victim is often weighed down by a feeling of languor and fatigue. Neglect these warnings and there is danger of dropsy, Bright's Disease, or diabetes. Any one of these symptoms is warning enough to begin treating the kidneys at once. Delay often proves fatal.

You can use no better remedy than Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's Rushville proof:

Harrison Levi, farmer, 931 North Sexton street, Rushville, Ind., says: "I have tried a great many kidney remedies and I have found Doan's Kidney Pills to be the best. I procured them at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s drug store and besides strengthening my back, they removed the pains in my loins."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

No More Gray Hair.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made and used a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair, and are fast following suit. The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulpher. As a scalp tonic and color restorer, this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers, and it can be bought for 50 cents and $1 a bottle at almost any first-class drug store, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

For sale and recommended by Hargrove & Mullin.

As Rushville Went Dry

Last night we seen the finish Of the traffic here in town.

It was sad to see so many Booze histers standing dound.

They looked as though something Would surely take its place And then walk up and take a drink, And get a redder face.

There was quite a jolly crowd, When one came in he would join, And all walk up and take a drink, While Thompson got the coin. Now it will be something fierce, If you will only stop and think, To have to walk a square or more To the court house pump and drink.

But then we'll have to stand it; Water is fine when weather is hot But some how or other it seems to me That it doesn't touch the spot.

No doubt we will be better off And some fellow can write a book About us drinking water But then how would it look.

After using barley and corn, Then to bring us to the level Of simply drinking water It surely beats the devil. The only way you can explain, If any one asks you why That you have made such a change Just tell them Rush county's "dry."

So boys I hope it's for the best As most all here will admit. It will make a nicer, cleaner town When we can all say we have quit. So let's just do the best we can And in our ways let's mend, And boom old Rushville to the top. Then, we will be happier in the end. J. ALBERT ENGLISH.

Interesting Jottings From the Editor-Preacher's Paper-Andersonville Herald

AMUSEMENTS

"Liberty For an Hour" and "The Judge's Whiskey" are the subjects to be shown at the Star-Grand tonight. The first is a drama telling a story of the escape of a convict, who is re-arrested and placed back in prison while doing an act of kindness. The second picture is comic and said to be very funny. Earl Robertson will sing "Why Doesn't Santa Clause go Next Door."

The management at the Vaudet theater has a very interesting program to offer tonight in the film, "What's the Matter With Tom Boland?" It is said to be very entertaining and a high class picture. Leon Maxey will sing a new illustrated song.

The program at the Palace theater tonight consists of the film "The Yellow Jacket Mine." The picture is one of the latest and is not only very interesting, but is of an educational nature. Miss Iva Bown will sing "My Irish Maid."

SPECIALTY DAY IN CIRCUIT COURT

Duke-Wright Will Case and Young vs. Lake Erie Suit Heard by Special Judges.

SHORT TRIALS ARE EXPECTED

The circuit court was a busy place today and two cases were in progress. The Duke-Wright will case was heard by Special Judge Hanna of Indianapolis in the regular court room and the trial of Samuel Young against the Lake Erie & Western railroad was in progress in the county library. Special Judge Meeks of Shelbyville heard the evidence in the latter case. The Duke-Wright case involves several thousand dollars and there is much interest in it. The suit of Young against the Lake Erie & Western is for $1000 damages which the plaintiff says is due him as the result of poor drainage caused by the tracks of the defendant company. Both cases are expected to be concluded this evening.

GERMANS TO MEET

Central Verein to Have National Convention at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Sept. 13.—One of the features of the national convention of the Central Verein to be held in Indianapolis six days beginning next Saturday is to be a parade in which it is expected that 10,000 persons will participate. The parade will open a convention to be attended by delegates from all parts of the United States and distinguished by the presence of his excellency, Diomedee Falconio, apostolic delegate from Pope Pius X. to the United States, and by a score of other noted members of the American hierarchy. During this convention the eyes of thousands of members of societies affiliated with the Central Verein will be turned toward Indianapolis, watching with interest the decision of the delegates on the many important topics they will consider.

In addition to the convention of the Central Verein there will be held in Indianapolis at the same time the convention of St. Joseph's Staats-Verband, which is an affiliation of the German societies of Indiana. The committees which have been in charge of the convention preparations have been at work for the last four months and have planned one of the greatest Catholic demonstrations the city has ever seen. Delegates to the conventions will number several hundreds, and it is expected that there will be thousands of strangers in the city for certain meetings of the convention.

A demonstration is being arranged for Saturday afternoon in honor of the arrival of the apostolic delegate. Indianapolis societies will assemble at the Union station with the papal and national colors to bid the delegate welcome. He will be escorted officially to the episcopal residence on North Meridian street, where he will be a guest during the convention.

CHAPTER XXIV.*Pursuit.

Brill Young picked up a trail Sunday morning at Tower W before the special from Medicine Bend reached there. The wrecked express car, which had been set out, had no story to tell. "The only story," said Whispering Smith, as the men climbed into their saddles, "is in the one from the hoofs, and the sooner we get after it the better."

The country around Tower W, which is itself an operating point on the western end of the division, a mere speck on the desert, lies high and rolling. To the south, 60 miles away, rise the Grosse Terre mountains, and to the north and west lie the solitudes of the Heart range, while in the northeast are seen the three white Saddle peaks of the Missions. The cool, bright sunshine of a far and lonely horizon greets the traveler here, and ten miles away from the railroad, in any direction, a man on horseback and unacquainted with the country would wish himself—mountain men will tell you—in hell, because it would be easier to ride out of.

To the railroad men the country offered no unusual difficulties. The Youngs were as much at home on a horse as on a hand car. Kennedy, though a large and powerful man, was insured to hard riding, and Bob Scott and Whispering Smith in the saddle were merely a part—though an important part—of their horses; without killing their mounts, they could get out of them every mile in their legs. The five men covered 20 miles on a trail that read like print. One after another of the railroad party commented on the carelessness with which it had been left. But 20 miles south of the railroad, in an open and comparatively easy country, it was swallowed completely up in the tracks of 100 horses. The railroad men circled far and wide, only to find the herd tracks everywhere ahead of them.

"This is a beautiful job," murmured Whispering Smith as the party rode together along the edge of a creek-bottom. "Now who is their friend down in this country? What man would get out a bunch of horses like this and work them this hard so early in the morning? Let's hunt that man up. I like to meet a man that is a friend in need."

Bob Scott spoke: "I saw a man with some horses in a canyon across the creek a few minutes ago, and I saw a ranchhouse behind those buttes when I rode around them."

"Stop! Here's a man riding right into our jaws," muttered Kennedy. "Divide up among the rocks." A horseman from the south came galloping up the creek, and Kennedy rode out with an ivory smile to meet him. The two men parleyed for a moment, disputed each other sharply, and rode together back to the railroad party.

"Haven't seen any men looking for horses this morning, have you?" asked Whispering Smith, eying the stranger, a squat, square-jawed fellow with a cataract eye.

"I'm looking for horses myself. I ain't seen anybody else. What are you looking for?"

"Is this your bunch of horses that got loose here?" asked Smith.

"No."

"I thought," said Kennedy, smiling, "you said a minute ago they were."

The stranger fixed his cataract on him like a flash-light. "I changed my mind."

Whispering Smith's brows rose protectively, but he spoke with perfect amiability as he raised his finger to bring the good eye his way. "You ought to change your hat when you change your mind. I saw you driving a bunch of horses up that canyon a few minutes ago. Now, Rockstro, do you still drag your left leg?"

"Now Shall I Break Your Arm?"

The rancher looked steadily at his new inquisitor, but blinked like a gopher at the sudden onslaught. "Which of you fellows is Whispering Smith?" he demanded.

"The man with the dough is Whispering Smith every time," was the answer from Smith himself. "You have about seven years to serve, Rockstro, haven't you? Seven, I think. Now what have I ever done to you that you should turn a trick like this on me? I knew you were here, and you knew I knew you were here, and I call this a pretty country; a little smooth right around here, like the people, but pretty. Have I ever bothered you? Now tell me one thing—what did you get for covering this trail? I stand to give you two dollars for every one you got last night for the job, if you'll put us right on the game. Which way did they go?"

"What are you talking about?" "Get off your horse a minute," suggested Smith, dismounting, "and step over here toward the creek." The man, afraid to refuse and unwilling to go, walked haltingly after Smith.

"What is it, Rockstro?" asked his tormentor. "Don't you like this country? What do you want to go back to the penitentiary for? Aren't you happy here? Now tell me one thing—will you give up the trail?"

"I don't know the trail." "I believe you; we shouldn't follow it anyway. Were you paid last night or this morning?"

"I ain't seen a man hereabouts for a week."

"Then you can't tell me whether there were five men or six?"

"You've got one eye as good as mine, and one a whole lot better."

"So it was fixed up for cash a week ago?"

"Everything is cash in this country." "Well, Rockstro, I'm sorry, but we'll have to take you back with us."

The rancher whipped out a revolver. Whispering Smith caught his wrist. The struggle lasted only an instant. Rockstro writhed, and the pistol fell to the ground.

"Now, shall I break your arm?" asked Smith, as the man cursed and resisted. "Or will you behave? We are going right back and you'll have to come with us. We'll send some one down to round up your horses and sell them, and you can serve out your time—with allowances, of course, for good conduct, which will cut it down. If I had ever done you a mean turn I would not say a word. If you could name a friend of yours I had ever done a mean turn to I would not say a word. Can you name one? I guess not. I have left you as free as the wind here, making only the rule I make for everybody—to let the railroad alone. This is my thanks. Now, I'll ask you just one question. I haven't killed you, as I had a perfect right to when you pulled; I haven't broken your arm, as I would have done if there had been a doctor within 25 miles; and I haven't started you for the pen—not yet. Now I ask you one fair question only: Did you need the money?"

WILL WONDERSNEVER CEASE

It is Creating a Great Sensation in Many Localities.

Many people are now going to Wolcott's drug store to learn all they can of the new remedy that is creating so much talk and newspaper comment. Scores of people throughout the State have been cured by the remedy within the past few months, and testimonials continue to be received from every direction in rapid succession. Here in Rushville and vicinity numbers of people are taking the remedy and many of them are praising it very highly, although they have been using it but a short while. While the demonstrations were being conducted at Greensburg, Ind., J. W. Boyle, of 116 East Washington street, said: "My wife has been using Root Juice and it is doing wonders for her. Before taking the remedy she had a very bad stomach. The lightest food would sound on her stomach and cause it to burn and pain her very much; in fact, she said she felt like it was raw from top to bottom. Recently her trouble was aggravated by an attack of the la grippe. Her appetite was very poor, but after taking the juice a few days her appetite returned and she now the least pain or inconvenience. She is no longer weak and nervous, but seems like a new woman. The remedy has proved a wonderful blessing to her." In fact, so many people are talking about the new remedy and telling of so much wonderful good it is doing that people are going to Wolcott's drug store in numbers to get some of the wonderful medicine.

"Yes, I did need it."

Whispering Smith dropped the man's wrist. "Then I don't say a word. If you needed the money, I'm not going to send you back—not for mine."

"How can a man make a living in this country," asked the rancher, with a bitter oath, "unless he picks up everything that's going?"

"Pick up your gun, man! I'm not saying anything, am I?"

"But I'm damned if I can give a double-cross to any man," added Rockstro, stooping for his revolver.

"I should think less of you, Rockstro, if you did. You don't need money anyway now, but sometime you may need a friend. I'm going to leave you here. You'll hear no more of this, and I'm going to ask you a question: Why did you go against this when you knew you'd have to square yourself with me?"

"They told me you'd be taken care of before it was pulled off."

"They lied to you, didn't they? No matter, you've got their stuff. Now I am going to ask you one question that I don't know the answer to; it's a fair question, too. Was Du Sang in the penitentiary with you at Fort City? Answer fair."

"Yes."

"Thank you. Behave yourself and keep your mouth shut. I say nothing this time. Hereafter leave railroad matters alone, and if the woman should fall sick or you have to have a little money, come and see me." Smith led the way back to the horses.

"Look here!" muttered Rockstro, following, with his good eye glued on his companion. "I pulled on you too quick, I guess—quicker'n I'd ought to."

"Don't mention it. You didn't pull quick enough; it is humiliating to have a man that's as slow as you are pull on me. People that pull on me usually pull and shoot at the same time. Two distinct movements, Rockstro, should be avoided; they are fatal to success. Come down to the Bend sometime, and I'll get you a decent gun and give you a few lessons."

Whispering Smith drew his handkerchief as the one-eyed man rode away and he rejoined his companions. He was resigned, after a sickly fashion. "I like to play blind-man's-buff," he said, wiping his forehead, "but not so far from good water. They have pulled us half-way to the Grosse Terre mountains on a beautiful trail, too beautiful to be true, Farrell—too beautiful to be true. They have been having fun with us, and they've doubled back through the Tophah Tophahs toward the Mission mountains and Williams Cache—that is my judgment. And aren't we five able-bodied jays, gentlemen? Five strong-arm suckers? It is an inelegant word; it is an inelegant feeling. No matter, we know a few things. There are five good men and a led horse; we can get out of here by Goose river, find out when we cross the railroad how much they got, and pick them up somewhere around the Saddle peaks if they've gone north. That's only a guess, and every man's guess is good now. What do you think, all of you?"

"If it's the crowd we think it is, would they go straight home? That doesn't look reasonable, does it?" asked Brill Young.

"If they could put one day between them and pursuit, wouldn't they be safer at home than anywhere else? And haven't they laid out one day's work for us, good and plenty? Farrell, remember one thing: There is sometimes a disadvantage in knowing too much about the men you are after. We'll try Goose river."

It was noon when they struck the railroad. They halted long enough to stop a freight train, send some telegrams, and ask for news. They got orders from Rooney Lee, had an empty box car set behind the engine for a special, and, loading their horses at the chute, made a helter-skelter run for Sleepy Cat. At three o'clock they struck north for the Mission mountains.

SEYMOUR AIDED U. S. AGAINST GERMANY.

British Admiral Who Will Visit This Country In Fall.

HE FOUGHT AFRICAN PIRATES

Admiral Dewey Had Warm Friendship and Admiration For Gallant English Sea Dog Who Was Prominent at Manila and During the Great Boxer Revolt in China.

The choice of Sir E. Hobart Seymour to command Great Britain's fleet of warships at the Hudson-Fulton celebration in New York has aroused favorable comment on both sides of the Atlantic.

Ever since Admiral Seymour stood so nobly at Dewey's back at Manila Americans have had an exceptionally warm place in their hearts for him. Later when he commanded the allied forces in a gallant but unsuccessful attempt to relieve Peking in 1900 he again endeared himself to all who read the reports concerning the expedition.

At the time of the Boxer uprising, when Seymour and his men were lost to sight in the country between Tientsin and Peking, the London Mail printed the following extract from Admiral Dewey's Chicago speech of May 1, 1900:

"My dear old friend, Sir Edward Seymour, is more than a brother to me. I will remember his friendship to the end. In Manila bay when I was in a most trying position this English commander stood loyally at

At that time Admiral Seymour was in command of the China station. He was already an old friend of Admiral Dewey, and, though not at Manila during hostilities, it was undoubtedly because of his general orders that the English ships backed Dewey so well.

After the battle of Manila, in which Dewey wiped out the Spanish fleet, the Germans mobilized at Manila a stronger fleet than that under the American commander's command, and it was then that Seymour's friendship was especially valuable. Their officers and men displayed sympathy for the Spaniards and showed disregard for the blockade established. Serious friction, which might have led to open rupture, followed. On one occasion, when Dewey learned that a cruiser from the Germans had landed provisions at Manila, the American admiral sent his flag lieutenant to Rear Admiral von Diederich to inform him of this "extraordinary disregard of the usual courtesies of naval intercourse" and to say that "if he wants a fight he can have it right now."

This notification was followed by a disavowal of the action of the cruiser.

When the joint army and navy operations against Manila began on Aug. 13, 1898, the German and French men-of-war occupied a position northwest of the city, from which they commanded the American station. The English and Japanese lay off Cavite near the Americans.

Americans Feared Germans.

The Americans feared that the Germans might fire on them during the bombardment of the city. This fear was quieted when Captain Chichester, senior British naval officer, placed his ships between the German admiral and Dewey. Captain Chichester undoubtedly acted under general instructions from Admiral Seymour. Later Captain Chichester, in telling of his relations with Admiral von Diederichs, said:

"When the German admiral sent me word that he was coming aboard my ship to get me to join in a protest against Dewey's action I looked up international law and spread the books out on my cabin table with the pages open and marked, all in a row, and when he came I said: 'What can I do? This American admiral is so deadly right in all he has done and all he proposes to do that if we protest we will merely show that we do not understand law.' Of course there was nothing to be done, and I did it."

It may be said that during the entire war with Spain Admiral Seymour and the men under him acted as seconds for Dewey and his sailors. They offered moral aid when Germany and France were making things a trifle uncomfortable for the Americans.

In Tientsin in June, 1900, when the Boxers had closed in on Peking, Admiral Seymour, then in full command of the British Asiatic fleet, was by agreement made leader of the British, American, Japanese, Austrian, Russian, Italian, German and French sailors and marines who sought to raise the siege of the capital city. There were 2,066 officers and men in all.

Medal For Heroic Deed.

On the right breast of Admiral Seymour is pinned, among others, a medal received when as a young naval officer he plunged into a shark infested sea at night in order to save a sailor from drowning.

Admiral Seymour was born in 1841 and entered the navy when twelve years old. From the time of the Crimean war in 1854 until the Egyptian war of 1882 his life was one of continual fighting. He was fourteen years old and a midshipman on the Furious at the bombardment of Odessa. He was present also at the bombardment of Sebastopol, one of the worst battles of the kind in modern history.

Later he was commander of the Growler and operated for several years against pirates on the eastern coast of Africa and on the Kongo river. He was wounded severely in the leg during this later period.

In the Egyptian war of 1882 Admiral Seymour commanded the Iris and the Indefatigable. He was a captain at that time. In October, 1905, Admiral Seymour visited Boston on board the Ivernia. He was the naval officer of the highest rank that had as yet visited America, and his command over the American sailors in China gave him a unique position in the eyes of Americans.

There are few instances when the flag of an admiral of the fleet has been flown at sea, and when coupled with the fact that Admiral Seymour, who will come here on the Indefatigable, was one of the two recipients of the Order of Merit when it was first established it will show the keen interest which England has in the coming celebration.

THE MIKADO'S GIFT.

True Significance of Plan to Send Cherry Trees to America.

In the daily press there has recently appeared a little item of news whose full significance the American public does not realize. Instead of sending warships to participate in the Hudson-Fulton celebration, the emperor of Japan has indicated his desire to convey to the New York authorities a gift of 300 cherry trees, one for each year the Hudson has been known to the world, to be planted on both sides of Riverside drive, New York, or in any other spot the officials may determine.

The ordinary reader will simply be struck with this intelligence as a very nice thing for the emperor to do, and people who do not believe much in military and naval display will perhaps say in their hearts that the emperor has chosen the better way to indicate his felicitation. But only a very few will know that, from the Japanese standpoint, much more is intended. The cherry blossom is not only the greatly beloved flower of the Japanese people, sharing a place in their affection with the chrysanthemum, the national flower of the empire, but is a symbol of the very soul of the manhood of Japan. That is why it has been celebrated in song; that is why the people flock to the cherry gardens in crowds, in order that while gazing upon the outward beauty their souls may be baptized afresh with a baptism of the real Japanese spirit.

There is nothing in the American life to illustrate just what the cherry means to the Japanese people. But if we had some symbol of nature that would embody all that Plymouth rock, all that the Declaration of Independence, all that the emancipation proclamation means of liberty, patriotism, union, and then if our president should select 300 of the choicest specimens of this emblem and officially send them as representing the felicitations of the American people to a friendly power at the time of some important celebration they would surely be considered to carry a message of good will.

Practical Hint For Schoolgirls.

A novel proposal made by a woman inspector has come under the consideration of the Romford (England) school managers. It is that schoolgirls shall become their own dressmakers. Needlework in elementary schools is at present confined to odd pieces of miscellaneous cloth obtained at trifling cost. The inspector proposes that the girls should be taught to mend clothes and to make complete garments suitable for their own wear. The idea is regarded as excellent, but the provision of material to make complete dresses would involve a considerable expenditure. The view of the managers is that it would amount to giving the children free clothes, and this principle they are not prepared to adopt. It is probable a way out of the difficulty would be found if the parents provided the material.

Abruzzi to Be Rear Admiral.

The announced program of the Duke of the Abruzzi for some time to come shows that a trip to America is completely excluded. After leaving the steamship Oceania, on which he is returning to Italy, he will go to Raccagnoli to visit King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena. On returning to Italy he will attend to the publication of a book on his last expedition to the Himalayas. After this work has been completed he will resume his service with the fleet, when, it is understood, he will be promoted to the rank of rear admiral.

MERRY-GO-ROUND EGG.

Greensburg News.) There is on exhibition at the News office a hen's egg that is perfectly round, as round can be. It was found by Gus Goyert in one of his cases, so the owner of the hen that is the mother of this curio, is to us unknown, and we are forced to the conclusion that it was probably laid by one of the hens in the poultry show at the fair grounds while looking at, or riding on the merry-go-round.

NEW MARK SET IN HIGH SCHOOL

Enrollment This Morning Was 192 Against 165 on the Opening Day Last Year.

GRADES ARE ALL WELL FILLED

Superintendent and Teachers Say the Demand For Higher Education is Evident in Rushville.

Enrollment in high school today 192!

This record mark was set when the schools opened this morning and Superintendent J. H. Scholl believes that the number will reach 200 before the week is over. The number on the opening day last year was 165 and that was a record up to that time. The lower grades are all well filled and although not over crowded are up to the standard of former years in attendance. School opened in all departments this morning and the usual first morning program was followed. The school book stores have been crowded today and the clerks could not wait on the youngsters fast enough. A full session was held in all the grades and in the high school this afternoon.

The school authorities are more than pleased with the large increase in the enrollment in the high school. The school has been growing steadily until now it is larger than schools in surrounding cities of the same size. It was only a few years ago that the enrollment scarcely reached the one hundred mark and now the superintendent is sure that the 200 mark will be reached before the first week is over.

The teachers and Superintendent Scholl say the increase in the attendance in high school is due to the fact that a high school course is becoming more and more popular each year. They say the fact that so many of the school are making good in the world has influenced others to stick to the work until the course is finished and still others to continue their school work instead of quitting after the eighth grade is completed. Another great factor in increasing the high school attendance is believed to be the fact that there is a greater demand for a college education now than ever before and a college education is impossible without the high school work.

BELL FAMILY HELD ANNUAL REUNION

About Ffty Descendants Gathered at the Home of Fred Bell Saturday

NEXT MEETING ON LABOR DAY

The annual Bell family reunion was held at the home of Fred Bell, near Sexton Saturday. About fifty descendants of John Bell gathered at the home for the annual event and to enjoy the big reunion dinner. Several people from this city attended and also many from Indianapolis and Connersville. The afternoon was taken up by short speeches and talks on the family history. It was decided to hold the next gathering at the fair grounds on Labor Day of next year.

Marks of Superiority in Wooltex Skirts

The style in Wooltex skirts is so distinctive that it looks as though designed specially for the wearer.

The material is pure wool, thoroughly shrunk, and cut with the warp so it cannot sag.

All the surface stitching is done with pure dye silk that will not fade or fuzz. Wooltex skirts are hung with perfect balance which lasts as long as the skirt lasts.

The placket facing is continuous, so that there is no danger of ripping it.

The fit and finish of Wooltex skirts are as exact as expert skill can make them.

The Wooltex label is an unqualified guarantee of two seasons' satisfactory service.

Wear a Wooltex skirt and you will be convinced that it has all the merits we claim for it.
